A pre-visit social narrative to enhance your visit.
This story will tell me what I will see and do when I visit Kaleideum North.

When I walk into the Museum, the first thing I will do is stand in line with my grownup to pay for our admission. I will wait my turn and be patient.
When it is our turn, the person working the Welcome Desk will stamp my hand if I would like them to. This stamp will wash off with soap and water.

If I have a coat, I can hang it up on the coat rack by the front door.

Next, I will choose what exhibits I would like to see. I will need to stay with my grownup and use my walking feet. If I am thirsty or hungry during my visit, we may eat a snack and have a drink in FoodWorks.
The next pages of this story will tell me more about the exhibits I can see at Kaleideum North. An exhibit is a place where I can play, explore, learn, and have fun!

I can see PhysicsWorks from the Welcome Desk. I can operate a robotic arm and experiment with gears.
On my way to Mountains to Sea, I can watch the pendulum swing.
In Mountains to Sea I can enjoy playing in a tree slide, watching fish swim, and exploring what a beaver’s home would look like.
In BioWorks I can see live animals such as a screech owl, quail, and black snake. I should not tap on the glass because it may disturb the animals.
From Mountains to Sea, I can leave the building and go explore the patio and the Environmental Park if I would like to. I should only go outside if my grownup is with me. Depending on when I am visiting, the Environmental Park may not be open.

I can touch the Millennium Ball if I would like to. It will be wet. I can take a walk on a trail and explore a garden. In the barn I might see live animals like sheep.
In SoundWorks I can play music by walking across a piano, experimenting with chimes, or tapping on bowls and pans. It may be noisy if other children are also making sounds.
In HealthWorks I can learn about the human body. I can play a game of operation or step inside a giant mouth.

The next gallery is the Traveling Exhibit Hall. The exhibits in the room change a few times a year. If the door to this room is closed, Kaleideum staff are installing a new exhibit.
KidsWorks is an area for children ages 4 and younger to play, learn, and explore.
In KEVAWorks I can build something with Keva® Planks.
In the Planetarium I can learn about stars and planets. This is a quiet place. It will be dark during the show and the sound may be loud. I can leave during the show, but I will not be able to re-enter after the show has started. This is to keep me and other people safe.
I have learned many things about Kaleideum North.
I will have fun when I visit!

I will remember to follow these rules when I am there:

I will stay with my grownup.
I will use my walking feet.
I will take turns with other children.
I will tidy up the exhibits after I explore them.
I will be kind to the live animals I see.
