

A pre-visit social narrative to enhance your visit.

2020

Note to Caregivers

In compliance with local and state regulations, we kindly ask that...

- All visitors ages 5 and older wear masks
- All visitors practice social distancing
- Visitors engage in regular hand-washing and sanitizing

There will be multiple sanitizing stations located throughout the museum, and additional staff will be cleaning and sanitizing throughout the day.

For additional information, you can review our Kaleideum COVID-19 Reopening Guidelines for Visitors and Kaleideum North Reopening Plan 2020 prior to your visit to learn more about the changes we have made at Kaleideum in order to create the safest environment possible during this time.

This story will tell me what I will see and do when I visit Kaleideum North.

Before I go into the museum, my family and I will put on our masks.

The people working at Kaleideum and other visitors will wear masks, too. Wearing masks helps reduce the spread of germs.

When I walk into the Museum, the first thing I will do is stand in line with my grownup to pay for our admission at the Welcome Desk.

I can stand on one of the social distancing stickers while we wait our turn.

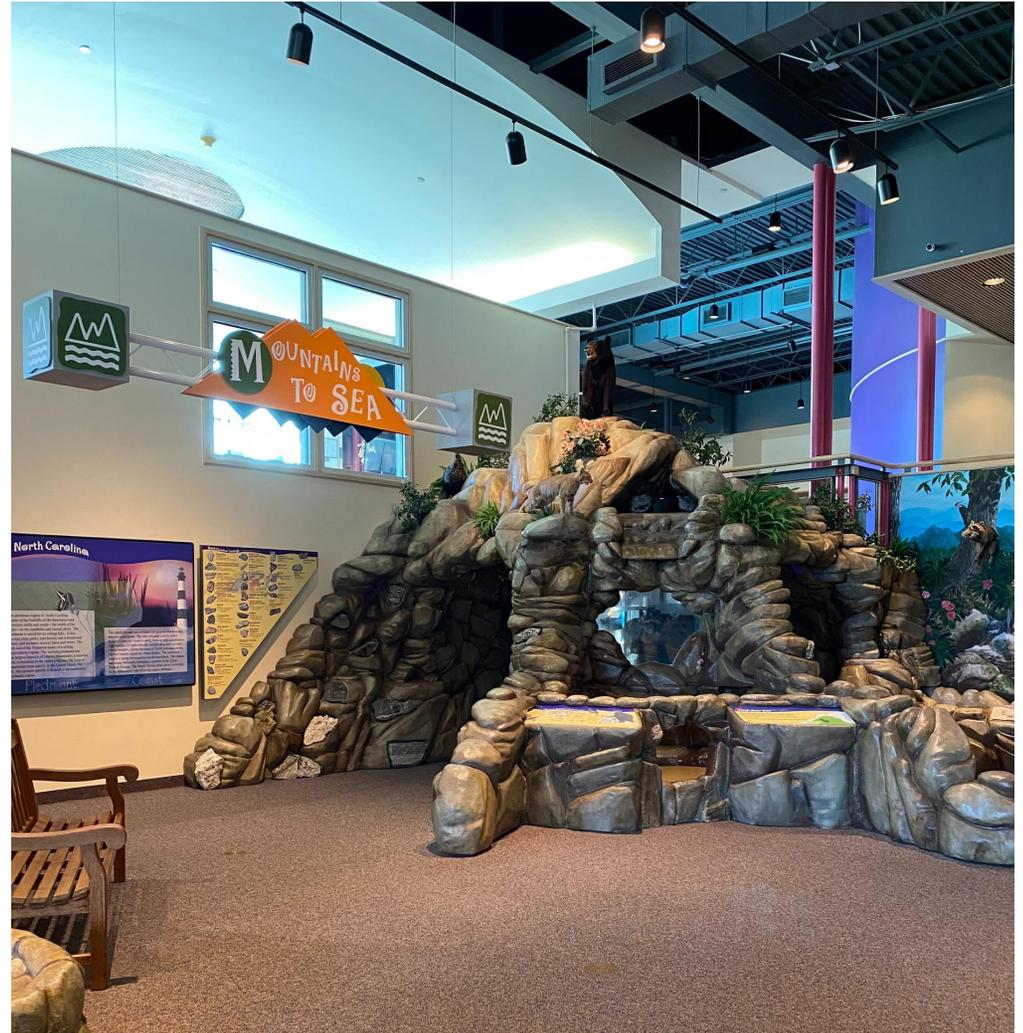

When it is our turn, the person working at the Welcome Desk will ask if I would like a stamp for my hand.

This stamp will wash off with soap and water.

An exhibit is a place where I can play, explore, learn, and have fun!

The next pages of this story will teach me more about the exhibits I can see at Kaleideum North.

I can see PhysicsWorks from the Welcome Desk. I can operate a robotic arm and experiment with gears in PhysicsWorks.

On my way to the Mountains to Sea exhibit, I can walk down the ramp and watch the pendulum swing.

In Mountains to Sea, I can learn about plants, animals, and rocks in North Carolina.

I can play in a tree slide, watch fish swim, and explore what a beaver's home would look like.

From Mountains to Sea, I can use the doors to go outside and explore the patio and the Environmental Park if I would like to.

I should only go outside if my grownup is with me.

Outside, I can touch the Millennium Ball.
It will be wet and feels heavy.

I can take a walk on the trail and explore a garden with my grownup.

In the Children's Garden, I can dig in the dirt and pretend to plant flowers.

I may remember live animals like sheep from the barn outside.

I won't see animals at the barn because they moved to wonderful homes. The animals are very happy in their new environments.

In the outdoor Science Park, I can explore simple machines and learn about sound.

I can dig in the sand for fossils or sit on the tire swing pendulum.

Back inside in BioWorks, I can see live animals such as a screech owl, quail, and black snake.

I will keep my hands off the glass and use a quiet voice so I don't scare the animals.

I will give other kids and families space and not stand too close to other people to help keep visitors safe.

In SoundWorks I can play music by walking across a piano, experimenting with chimes, or tapping on bowls and pans.

It may be noisy if other children are also making sounds.

I will see signs and sanitizer stations around the museum reminding me to keep my mask on and keep my hands clean while I learn and play in the exhibits.

I can use hand sanitizer before I touch things in the exhibits.

I can use hand sanitizer when I am finished playing in an exhibit, too.

In HealthWorks I can learn about the human body.

I can play a game of operation or step inside a giant mouth.

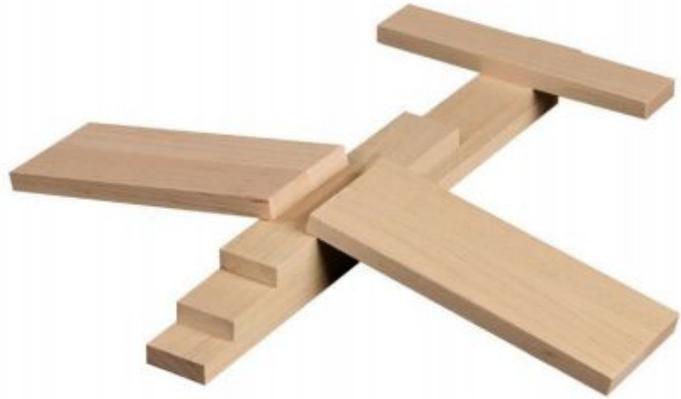

If I am 4 years old or younger, I can play, learn, and explore with puzzles, puppets, blocks and books in KidsWorks.

In the Travel Adventure exhibit, I can use Lego® bricks to build vehicles for travel across land, sea, or air.

In KEVAWorks I can use my imagination to build something new with Keva® Planks.

In the Planetarium I can learn about stars and planets.
This is a quiet place.

If I watch a show inside the Planetarium, it will be dark and the sound may be loud.

I can leave during the show, but I will not be able to re-enter after the show has started. This is to keep me and other people safe.

If I am thirsty or hungry during my visit, I can eat a snack and have a drink at the tables outside the Planetarium.

I can take my mask off while I sit at a table to eat.

When I'm finished eating, I will remember to put my mask back on and clean my hands before I continue to explore the museum.

I can wash my hands in the bathroom with soap and water or use a hand sanitizer station.

I will remember to follow these rules when I visit Kaleideum North:

I will stay with my grownup.

I will use my walking feet.

I will take turns with other children.

I will tidy up the exhibits after I explore them.

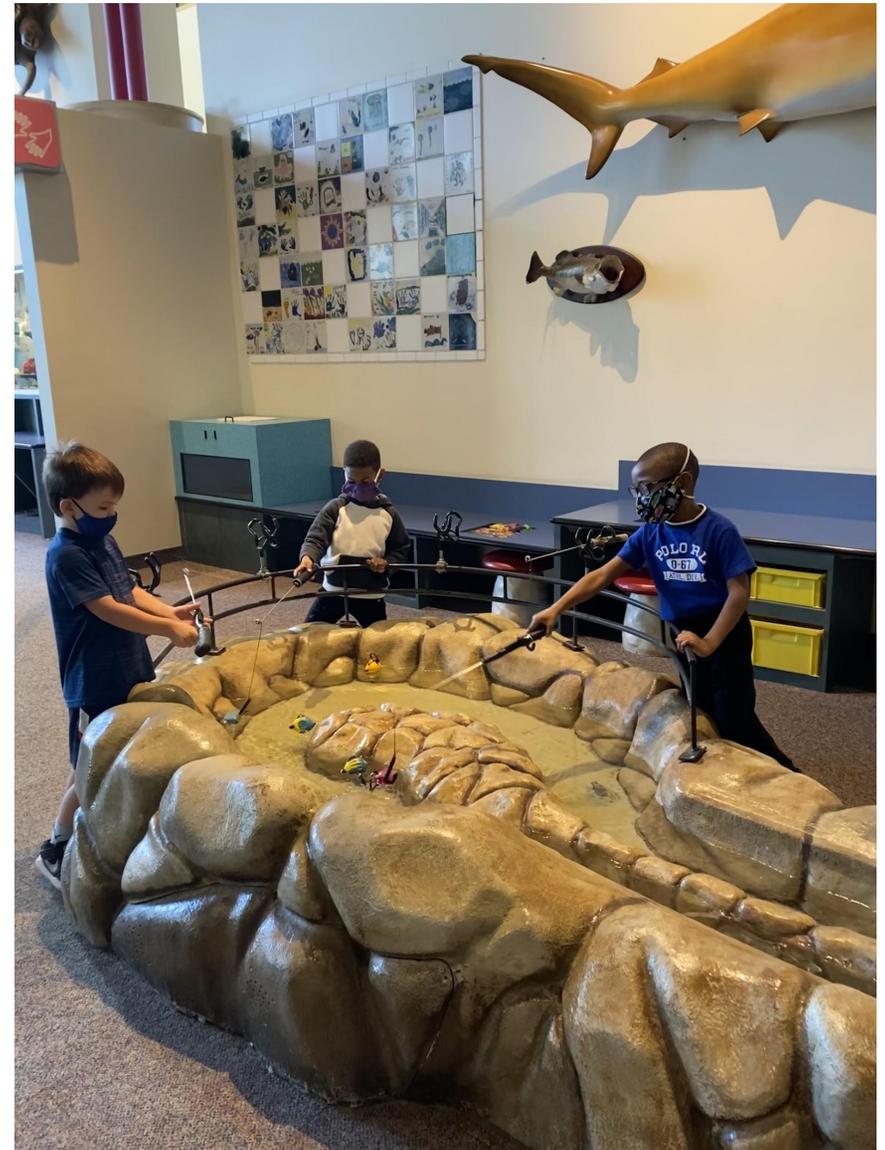

I will be kind to the live animals I see.

I will wear my mask and give people space when I play in the museum.

I can be safe and have fun when I visit Kaleideum North!
